MSME STIMULUS PACKAGE TO BOOST ECONOMY

Dr. S P Sharma & Dr. Neelam Tandon

The proactive and fast track measures undertaken by the Government to combat the daunting impact of pandemic COVID-19 on trade and industry is encouraging. The announcement of a mega stimulus package of Rs 20 lakh crore along with various structural reforms and relief measures, relaxations & extensions of various compliance deadlines would go a long way to address COVID-19 related hardships of trade and industry.

The pandemic impact of COVID-19 has resulted in the fall in business & consumer confidence, the slump in production and sales, subdued demand, squeezing working capital vis-à-vis piled up inventories; thereby impacting the overall economic, trade, and industrial activities in the country. The industrial growth has been severely affected; there is a drastic fall in the growth of IIP at around (-) 17% in the month of March 2020 as compared to 4.6% in February 2020.

As Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) are one of the most important segments of overall growth of industry and economy and create tremendous employment opportunities for skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled workforce in the country, the Finance Minister has announced Rs. 3.7 lakh crore to be infused in MSMEs to create adequate liquidity, improve their working capital cycle, promote investments and strengthen their contribution in India's industry and economic growth trajectory.

The sound financial and operational health of micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs) is vital for India's businesses and its inclusive economic growth as they contribute around 32% in gross value added; employs around 111 million people (36.1 million in manufacturing, 38.7 million in trade and 36.2 million in other services) with a

JOB AND CAREER STRATEGIES IN TIMES OF COVID

Vijay Prakash Srivastava

The world had never seen anything like this before. It is easy to understand that we're talking of the pandemic due to corona virus. In the past troubles use to erupt in one or other part of the world but this virus has spread everywhere and the entire world is struggling to mitigate the effects caused by the corona virus.

The outbreak of the virus is not just a health issue. It has shook the economies of countries of all sizes, whether underdeveloped, developing or developed. There are social and psychological effects of the pandemic. Countries have reduced their growth projections, businesses are talking of reduced demand, all of which in one way or the other are going to adversely affect the availability of jobs.

Let us be realistic. Human beings have been able to fight and win over every adversity in the past. May be getting full control over this virus is going to take a bit longer but finally we'll come out of this difficult situation. However it's necessary to assess the multiple challenges that the pandemic has brought and formulate strategies to meet to overcome these.

This article is about the challenges related to the world of jobs and careers. For this we've to look into the changes in the world of work and various sectors which are providers of job opportunities.

The culture of working from home, also known as remote working has slowly been making inroads in our country. The outbreak of corona virus has made companies to allow more and more employees to work from home. Restrictions on commuting and exposure left only two options before a large number of organizations - stop operations till the problem continues or explore how operations can be continued without employees coming to their regular place of work. The latter was the obvious choice as long as it was found feasible. Information technology companies have adopted work from home in a big way. Also it was a pleasant surprise to see government organizations going for remote working, which they have been hardly used to. Non-banking finance companies and many other finance companies, organization dealing with education and research too have been open to remote working. Manufacturing sector had to remain closed for a longer time, as to run the plant physical presence of workers is necessary.

Now many companies have decided that remote working which was introduced as a temporary measure, will stay with them for a longer time. In fact few companies have decided to get some part of their work done remotely on a regular basis. Thus companies will need lesser space for reduced number of employees on site and will save on the cost of space, travel etc.

Remote working needs effective use of digital tools. Candidates willing to work in the industries using remote working need to develop their skills in working from home.

Countries all over the world are talking of job losses due to current pandemic. For example United States of America, seems to have lost 33 million jobs as reported by The Guardian website. Job losses occur when companies retrench or lay off their employees as there is contribution of more than 48% in total exports of India.

The operational efficiency and supply chain management of the medium and small enterprises could be the connecting link between international trade and the manufacturing sector. But COVID-19 has disrupted the financial health of MSMEs, with a decrease in revenue, increase in debt obligations with an increase in the working capital cycle. Keeping into consideration the significant contribution of MSMEs in the Indian economy and international trade, the Government of India has relaxed credit norms towards MSMEs to generate higher liquidity and improve their financial health.

Economic Package of Rs 3.7 Lakh Crore to MSMEs

To strengthened liquidity and working capital cycle Rs. 3 lakh 70,000 crore Economic Package offered to MSMEs
3 Lakh Crore collateral-free automatic loans for businesses and MSMEs	Rs. 20,000 crore for subordinate debt for stressed MSMEs	Rs. 50,000 crore for equity generation through Fund of Funds for MSMEs

Ease of doing business and costs of doing business are two important aspects of market-competitive products and services. To increase the market competitiveness of MSMEs Government of India has increased the global tender limit for MSMEs up to Rs 200 crores. The government has proposed to create an electronic marketing platform for MSMEs products to increase its reach to more number of consumers; this could also be beneficial to various companies to promote online financial transactions. Hence simplification of operational norms, ease of access to credit, promotion of marketing of MSMEs products and services on electronic platforms, with an increase in a financial transaction on an electronic platform would enhance the operational efficiency, create a competitive advantage for the MSMEs sector in India and would create better job opportunities for the non-farm workforce within the country.

The social cost of investment and financial constraints in the MSME sector is at a significantly higher rate of industrial unemployment in urban and semi-urban India and a disguised unemployment in rural India. Keeping into consideration the Government of India has been consistently working to financially help MSMEs.

In the financial year 2019 almost 5.70 lakh micro enterprises had been supported with margin money of Rs 12,902 crore that could create tremendous employment opportunities. For manufacturing businesses, the second financial assistance in the financial year 2019 had been proposed by the Government of India to give up to Rs 1 crore while for service/trading business it was up to Rs 25 lakh. The subsidy on interest offered was 15 percent while 20 percent was for businesses based in hilly states and northeastern region. The PMEGP scheme intends to boost entrepreneurship by supporting individuals setting up micro-enterprises with loans up to Rs 25 lakh in the manufacturing sector and Rs 10 lakh in the service sector along with a 15-35 percent subsidy for various categories.

The manufacturing sector with ease of credit and investment promotion incentives can be immensely benefitted. The incremental benefit of investment in MSMEs is an improvised product and process innovation with sustainable contribution to the economic growth of the country. An increase in investment in the MSME sector and the enhancement of market competitiveness creates immense job opportunities and reduces the dependence of the workforce in the agricultural sector. Government initiatives to promote investment with the simplification of procedural norms for the micro, small, and medium-sized enterprises are encouraging and would go a long way to promote the growth and sustainability of MSMEs.

Simplification of Investment Norms for MSMEs

Simplification and Uniformity of Investment and Turnover Parameters in MSMEs Sector
Micro MSMEs	Small MSMEs	Medium MSMEs
Investment ≤ Rs. 1 cr. And Turnover ≤ Rs.5 cr	Investment ≤ Rs. 10 cr. and Turnover ≤ Rs.50 cr	Investment ≤ Rs. 50 cr. and Turnover ≤ Rs. 250 cr.

On June 1st 2020 the government of India has extended the opportunity of Emergency Credit Line to Businesses/MSMEs, as part of stimulus package announced by Hon'ble Finance Minister, of Rs 3 lakh crores collateral-free automatic loans for MSME units with turnover of up to Rs 100 crore to the MSME units with turnover of up to Rs 250 crore. This would increase the trust of MSMEs to manufacture goods and help the country to become self-reliant with immense employment opportunities for micro entrepreneurs in India.

According to the government's Financial year 2019 MSME report, out of a total of 6.33 crore MSMEs in India, 6.30 (99 percent) are micro-units while only 3.31 lakh are medium enterprises and 0.05 lakh are medium businesses. Industries creating demand for MSME sector goods and services had been adversely affected due to pandemic and national lockdown. It is worth to note that the investment simplification norms and ? 3.7 lakh crore credit facilities would benefit more than 4.5 million MSMEs in India. It would be highly beneficial to not only urban, rural, and semi-urban MSMEs but also to industries creating demand for the MSME sector.

To overcome the financial crunch with ease of financial liquidity and policy initiatives, it is equally important to create a positive environment towards investment in technology to enhance the productivity of employees and reduce the operational cost of firms. The productive and efficient firms would create new opportunities for the innovative production process and this would reduce the debt obligations of small firms. Better working capital cycle and improved financial health of business units will reduce the probability of default in bank's books and hence as a result banks will be incentivized to lend more. The revised and broadened definition of MSMEs will help a large number of impacted businesses to meet their additional funding requirements for undertaking business activities. It will enhance the production possibility frontiers of MSMEs and increase their market competitiveness and create a level playing field for them to tap new opportunities in the domestic and international markets.

Market competitive MSMEs with lower operational cost and better technological incorporation can improvise the financial health and can make them a competitive market player of the global value chain. Hence Indian MSMEs can be a significant contributory in international trade and the global economy. Government support to MSMEs strengthens productive capacities of small firms and contributes to the higher level of income of employees, creation of a higher probability of manufacturing jobs and an increase in export proceeds. To be a part of the Global value chain MSMEs of India have to adopt product and process innovation with imparting a higher level of skill to workers and create a business environment that enables firms to meet international standards with continuous innovative and technological investment.

Increase in globalization, exponential development in information and communication technologies, increase in factor mobility and tariff reductions have created immense opportunities for medium and small enterprises to contribute to the global value chain. Becoming a part of the global value chain and strengthen their financial health, increase productivity and expand their markets, micro, medium and small enterprise needs greater managerial and financial resources. These firms can also, contribute to waste management and recycling projects of India and the rest of the world with government support.

So, in conclusion, MSMEs are the pillars of economic growth with employment generation for around 111 million people (36.1 million in manufacturing,38.7 million in trade and 36.2 million in other services) with a contribution of more than 48 percent in total exports of India. During pandemic COVID 19 the sector has incurred huge financial crisis due to the operational constraints of its unique payment structure based on product linked wage structure. The freezing domestic demand as well as third party supply chain finance platform, cross border trade has been adversely affected because of a sharp decline in exports to prominent countries like Europe, the US, and China. The increased limits for medium enterprises will help a larger number of such enterprises to avail the benefits of various Government Schemes and ensure that MSMEs are able to resume, restart and revive from the current distressed times along with enhanced ease of doing business and can positively contribute to India's exports.

Hence during COVID 19, MSMEs having financial constraints of working capital shortages and disrupted supply chains with most of the industries such as poultry and seafood, consumer durables and electronics, tourism, hospitality and apparel, demand has decreased and hence revenue generation has also been adversely affected. Keeping into consideration the liquidity crunch of MSMEs, Government of India has created adequate trade finance support to deal with supply chain management and has created a positive environment to promote business continuity plans that involve more automation with suppliers and customers. The new definition of MSMEs with Rs 250 crore annual turnover and Rs 50 crore investments in plant and machinery for medium enterprises will further bolster the manufacturing sector, increase its contribution in GDP and create millions of new employment opportunities for the growing young workforce in India.

It will change the supply chain issues and will be highly beneficial to MSMEs with a reduction in various operational costs. With government financial support and product and process innovations with skill enrichment, MSMEs has immense potential to become a significant contributor in India's global value chains, more contribution in India's manufacturing, exports, and overall growth trajectory of the Indian economy.

It is worth to note that the MSMEs financial health is vital for the economy to rejuvenate from the daunting impact of pandemic COVID-19; the consistent structural reforms for MSMEs initiated by the Government of India will help MSME workforce to contribute positively to the macroeconomic objectives of generating employment, reducing poverty and addressing rural-urban migration and would strengthen the demand and supply linkage for achieving the government of India's objective to make India self-reliant by promoting local goods and services.The government of India has left no stone unturned to strengthen the financial, operational and emotional health of the MSMEs in India. On the 2nd June 2020 government has created a unique online platform for the hand-holding of such enterprises," Champions.gov.in". The acronym CHAMPIONS word signifies "Creation and Harmonious Application of Modern Processes for Increasing the Output and National Strength". The government with its holistic and determined approach of creating a harmonious environment with an objective to achieve incremental productivity of MSME sector with the adoption of innovative modern processes in the manufacturing of goods and services and make such enterprises the front leaders of the growth engine and self-reliant economy. It has been felt essential by the government of India to put up and promote a unified, empowered, robust, bundled and technology-driven platform for helping and promoting the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) of the country. As the name suggests it will aim at Creation and Harmonious Application of Modern Processes for Increasing the Output and National Strength. Three basic objectives of the CHAMPIONS are ;(a) to provide financial and operational help to MSMEs in the difficult situation of Pandemic, (b) to enable MSMEs to capture new opportunities including manufacturing of medical items & accessories,(c) to identify the potentially viable firms who can be resilient to the present supply disruption and become national and international champions. The visionary measures of the government of India for the MSMEs will go a long way to strengthen the economic goal of self-reliance (Atmanirbhar Bharat) and retain the sustainable economic growth trajectory of the country.

JOB AND CAREER

lesser demand for their product or services. As of now more and more countries are giving relaxations in lockdown, albeit with restrictions. However it would not be right to think that past demand levels can be restored soon. For nearly a quarter, economic activities have been closed across the world and the effects are telling. For some time we're going to see a vicious circle. Due to job losses and reduced incomes, consumption is sure to go down, resulting in lesser demand we'll see lesser vibrancy in the economies.

The pandemic hasn't affected all industrial sectors uniformly. Some of the industries are affected worse than others. Take the travel and tourism industry which has taken the biggest hit. With partial opening of rail and air trafficsome solace is there but it'll take longer for people to travel for leisure and pleasure. So hotels and resorts will bear the brunt for some more time. While the pandemic has come as a curse for certain sectors, some others have found new opportunities. Pharma, health sanitation and insurance to some extent, can be kept under this.

As everywhere there is talk of diminishing job opportunities, it's not surprising for job seekers to get worried. A similar situation was seen during the slowdown of 2008.

The good thing is, as compared to any other country, government in India is in all readiness to help economy and industry. Our central government has already announced a number of packages which have been welcomed by industry bodies such as Confederation of Indian Industries (CII) and others. Let us hope that things will get better with time.

Job related concerns are not similar for everyone. Different set of candidates have different worries. A small segment of people, usually in private sector, has already been retrenched and understandably such people are facing more difficulties. In few cases erstwhile employers of these people have been trying to find alternative employment for them. Few job portals and recruitment agencies too have been extending help to people whose jobs have gone. Definitely some of these people will be placed with other companies. The ones who have not been successful need to be a bit aggressive in their job search and adopt a practical approach in handling the situation. This practical approach may demand a little flexibility while approaching or accepting a new job offer. There may be job offers with a pay cut or role reduction. Whether to agree or not to such offers, may be a difficult decision. But one has to accept the reality and remain positive that things may get better. Try to make best out of the situation with belief that your new experience may bring you more opportunities. Also you need to think aboutreskilling yourself which will add value to your candidature in the job market. There are various areas to choose for reskilling. You should go for those you find interesting and in which you see potential.

A large number of people are those who have been looking for a job and are stuck as hardly any new recruitment has been happening. They have to wait for a little more time. Public sector and government organizations who had invited applications in the past are keen to take up the selection process further in the coming months. Candidates looking forward to appear in such selection process have got more time to prepare and they should make productive use of this gap .Even if you're satisfied with your present preparation, some revision will always help you. As happens in any competitive selection, not all applicants are going to be taken as the number of applicants are often much more than the positions available. Now there are very few job notifications in newspapers and on job portals but as we progress in successive phases of unlock, new recruitment notices will be issued. When this happens, one should look forward to applying for more opportunities, to improve their chances of success. There are few competitive exams which are held every year and whose structure is defined. Considering your eligibility and interest you may start your preparation while waiting to apply when announcements are made.

Also the following points would help.

Adopting to the new normal: Till we're fully protected against corona virus and get vaccinated (after the vaccine arrives), we've to take all the precautions like wearing mask and maintaining social distance etc. We've to take care of self and also see that we don't put others to risk. This is applicable at home and at your place of work, if any.

Be in readiness for telephonic/video interview: Personal, face to face interview has been the norm for most of us. But in last few years companies have been using telephonic/video interview for assessment of candidates. Information technology companies in particular, for skill based jobs, are more likely to use these in hiring people. If you're looking for a private sector job, chances for your getting interviewed remotely may be there and you should be developing your confidence for that. By taking help of your friends or family members you may undergo a few mock sessions of such interviews and bring improvement wherever required.

Broadening your job search criteria: For job seekers there are multiple things to consider .First one should know the area of work one is looking for. Then you've to think of organizations which may provide you such work opportunity. Also you need to explore the level or position for which you may be considered eligible. For example a chartered accountant who has just completed her course will start as a fresher, while the one with a couple of years' experience may get a managerial position (Assistant Manager/Manager) in the accounts department. Every job seeker has to be clear whether she is looking for job locally, at nearby cities, nationally or globally.

Many young people staying in villages and towns search for jobs only in newspapers. It may sound surprising but only a small percentage of jobs in our country are advertised in newspapers now. Also the same job advertisement is not going to appear in all the newspapers. Be warned that these days sometimes there are fake job advertisements in all media channels including newspapers.

Don't depend on a single newspaper for job opportunities. For jobs in government departments and central public sector undertakings refer regularly to Employment News and national level newspapers. Many of the newspapers have online editions which can be accessed freely or by simple registration.

Use of Social Media: Now many employers find it more convenient to source potential candidates from social media platforms. Young people while creating their profile on a relevant social media platform will do well to keep this in mind.

A LinkedIn profile is recommended to be posted by all the jobseekers. Also register your resume on different job portals .The resume should be designed carefully to highlight your competencies, strengths and skills. Remember that this resume is your first introduction with the employer and you'll be approached only if the resume creates a positive impression.

In many new age companies there is a system of referral in which existing employees may provide details of people known to them to their company to be considered for a suitable role. This referral doesn't influence the selection process. You may explore if any of your friends or relatives is in a position to refer you for the kind of role desired by you.

The times are tough but there are few silver linings. We all know how Chinese products have invaded the world, mainly due to lower cost. These products included medical devices, electronic item, toys and heavy machinery too. In the new emerging world order China's dominance is going to take a hit for a number of reasons and this brings a never before opportunity to India. India has enough manpower to become the manufacturing hub for the world. Of course the country would be required to position itself like that with necessary planning. Our prime minister has already emphasised the need for 'Atmnirbhar Bharat' which means that we should be reducing our dependence on exports. With 'Make in India' already in place, one hopes that in the coming months more jobs would be created in manufacturing sector.

In these times of Covid, many negative news are floating and gloomy pictures are being projected. All these shouldn't make us disappointed and loose hope. The changing times require us to follow the effective principles of change management. Change means difference in status quo and uncertainty about future. There're things individuals can't control, so it would be better to focus on what is within our reach. In the present scenario we need to better equip ourselves, reinforce our valuable learnings, add to our knowledge and skills and become more aware of the opportunities available for us. All these are going to help us bring closer to a job or career which we desire.
